

Monthly insurance policy wording update

The Word, November 2024

25 November 2024

For our November edition of The Word we cover a range of topics of interest from across the insurance sector.

In light of recent events, we take a look at weather protection parametric insurance and what the associated trends mean for the insurance industry. We also consider what lessons insurers can learn from the Post Office Horizon scandal.

After Donald Trump's re-election in the US, we examine what this means for insurers in the UK.

Additionally, we explore the impacts of a new carbon fraud product and the recently announced Environmental Crime Financial Toolkit.

Finally, we consider the implications for insurance professionals of 'The Grate Cheese Robbery'.

We hope you find this edition informative and insightful.

Tim

Contents

- Weather protection parametric insurance: A sign of things to come? →
- Post Office scandal: Lessons for underwriters →
- What might a Trump victory mean for the UK insurance industry? →
- Carbon fraud prompts insurance response →
- Environmental crime and the impact for insurers →
- The 'grate' cheese robbery: Implications for insurance professionals →

Key contact

Tim Johnson

Partner

tim.johnson@brownejacobson.com

+44 (0)115 976 6557

Related expertise

Services

Coverage disputes and policy interpretation

Insurance claims defence

Policy drafting and distribution